ANOTHER GAME FOR NORFOLK

The Petersburgs Go Down With Foreman.

A GAME OF MANY ERRORS.

It Was an Easy Victory. Norfolk Has a Batting Team. They Pound the Life Out of Foreman and Win Reports were received from the Committees on Temperance, State of the Church, State of the Country, and from the Committee on Circuits and Stations, giving the plans of the various charges for the next conference year.

Last night an educational mass meeting at St. John's Church was addressed by Rev. Dr. W. D. Johnson, of Georgia, secretary of the Education Board, and by Prof. John R. Hawkins, president of the Kittrell (N. C.) Normal and Industrial Justitute.

This morning the Conference will hear reports from the committees having in charge the general church funds. With Ease. Hager's Home

About 600 people witnessed the sec-ond league game between Norfolk and Petersburg yesterday afternoon. The game was better on the whole than it was yesterday, although the pitchers for both teams were very poor. There were lots of good, elever plays made for were lots of good, clever plays made for both teams. Hager's home run, batting the ball over centre field fence and bringing two men in, was one of the pretty features of the game. There were two beautind double plays made by the Norfolk team and also one by the visitors. The first was from Corcoran, short stop, to O'Hagan, first base, to Tenley, catcher. The second, McDonaid, pitcher, to O'Hagan, first base, to Hodman, third base. The one made by the visitors was also very clever. It was from Pender, short stop, to McClung, first base, to Perry, second base, In the first part of the game Sullivan, left field, was injured in a collision with Crowley, centre field, so badly that he was retired and Harris substituted. The batting was heavy for both teams. When tired and Harris substituted. The bacting was heavy for both teams. When Hager made his home run in the sixth inning the rooters went wild with enthusiasm.
